Professional Portfolio
Leeds Arts University

For this Autumn/Winter collection, the boundaries of tailoring will be reimagined to create a series of intricate structures of beauty and strength that utilize complex pattern cutting with an origami twist.

The name 'Figured It Out' stems from the intricate building of the idea, the final aim of the garments is for the audience to not understand how the garments have been constructed.

FIGURED IT OUT
AW X GRADUATE '23 COLLECTION

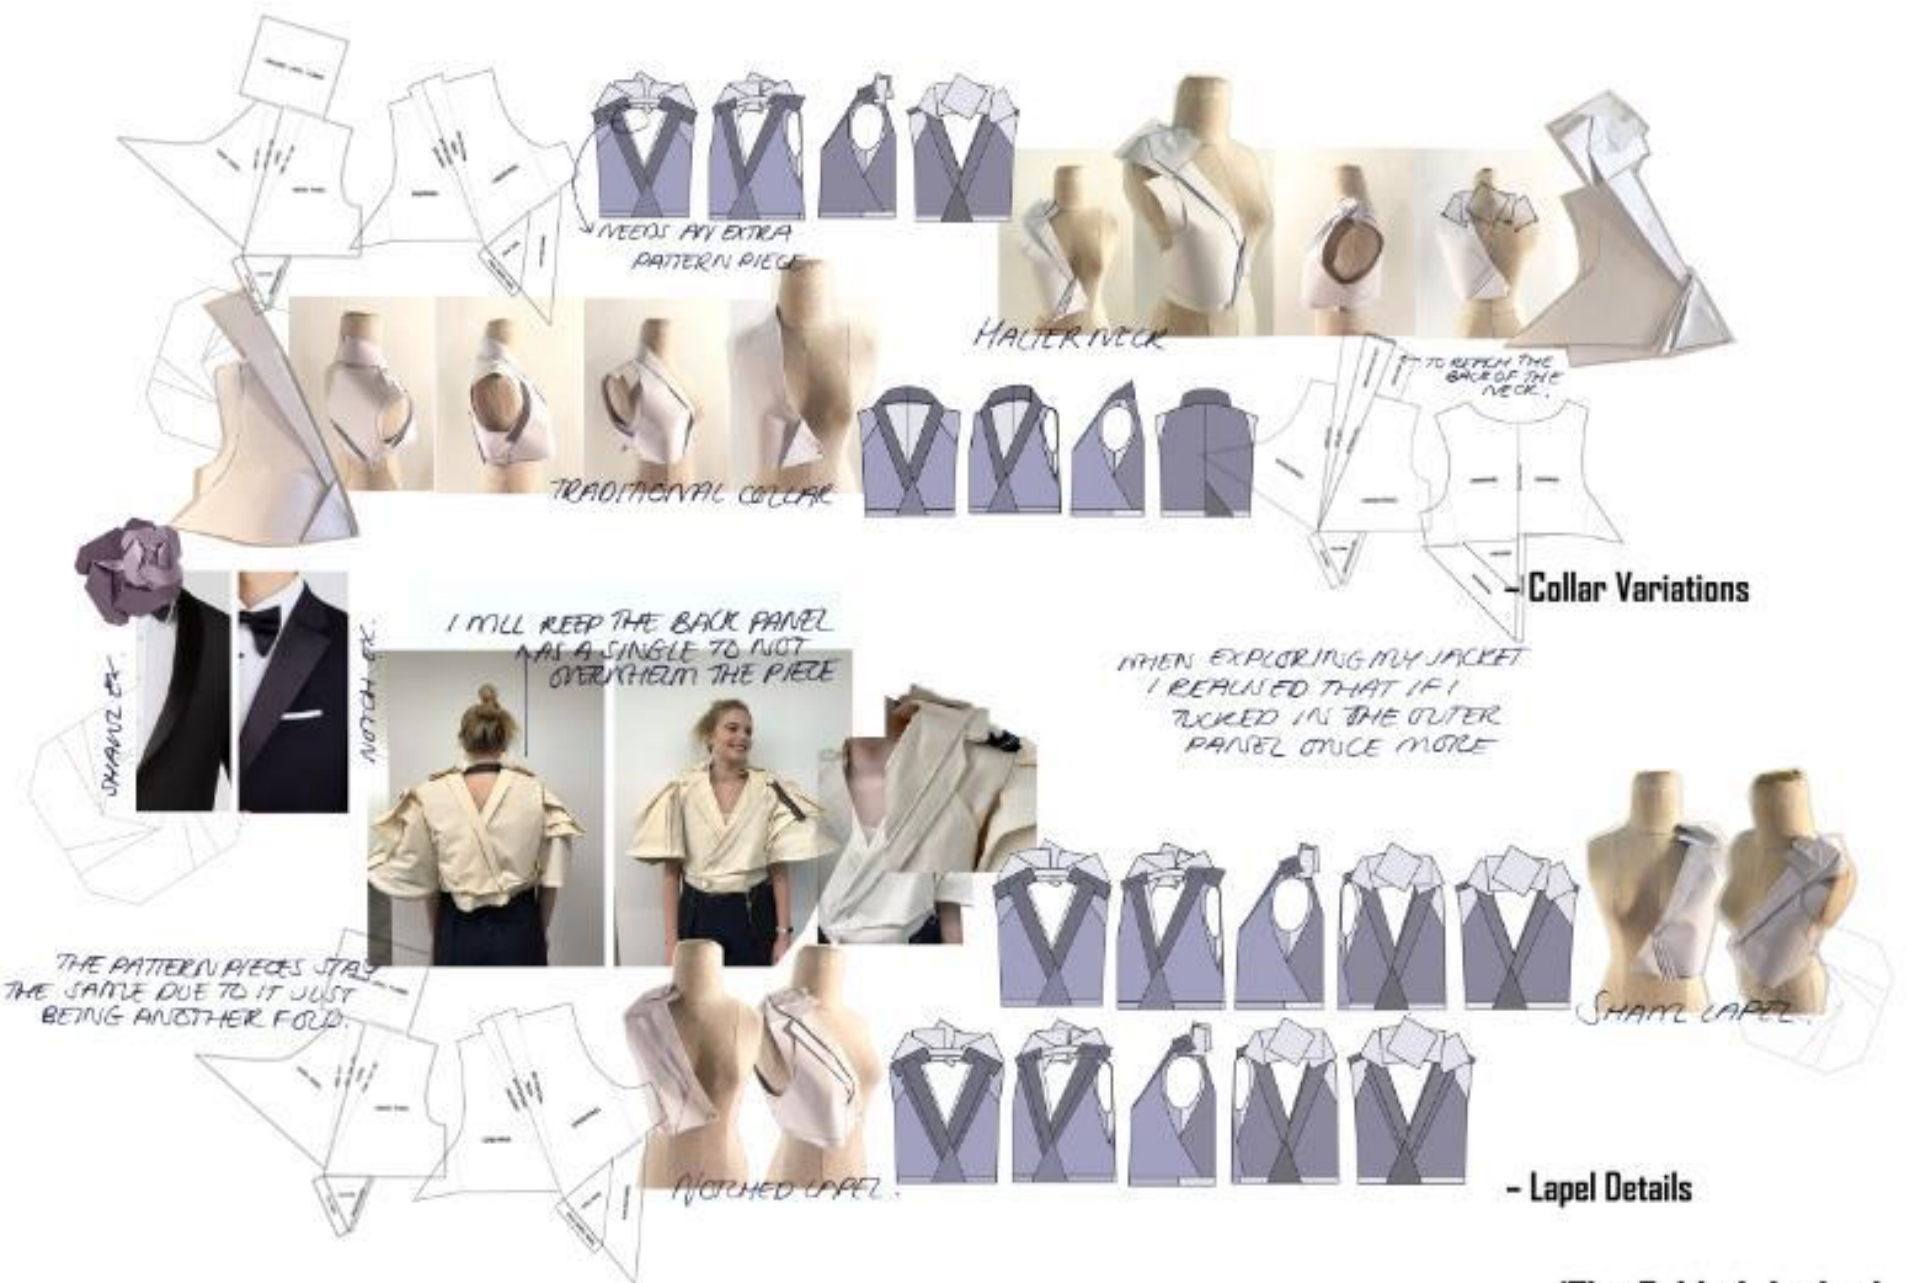

THIS JACKET WILL BE THE PIVOT POINT OF ALL THE CARMETS IN MY COLLECTION.

'THE FOLDED JACKET' IS AN ODE TO ORIGAMI AND CREATIVE PATTERN CUTTING. ITS INTRICATE AND COMPLEX MAKES IT INTERESTING TO WEAR AND ADIURE.

I WILL KEEP THE BACK PANEL AS A SINGLE TO NOT OVERHELM THE PIECE

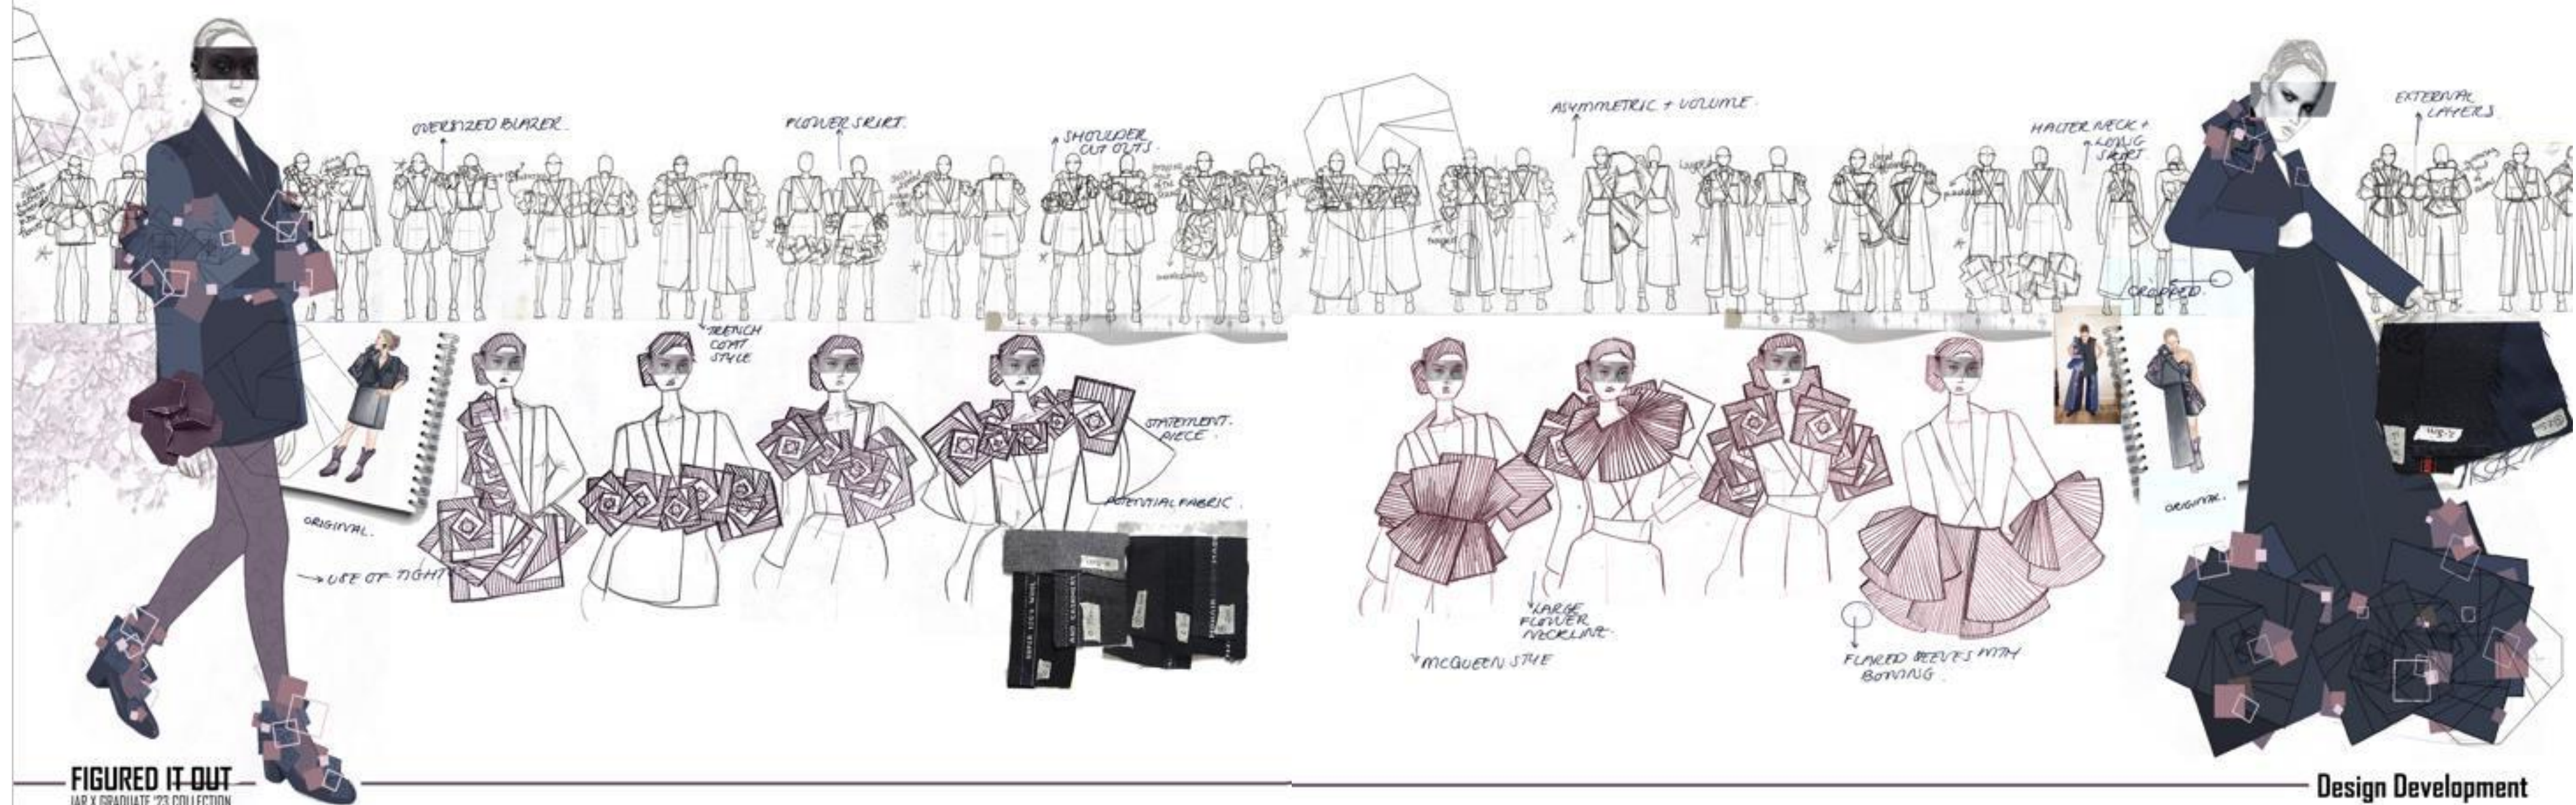

WHEN EXPLORING MY JACKET I REALISED THAT IF I TUCKED IN THE OUTER PANEL ONCE MORE

THE PATTERN PIECES STAY THE SAME DUE TO IT JUST BEING ANOTHER FOLD.

Increased sensitivity of the skin means heavy non-breathable fabrics are highly irritant due to heat retention and friction.

Base layer
Meant as a second skin to protect and carry moisture.

Mid layer
for use as a layer of warmth or as a lower base layer.

Top Layer
A protective layer from outdoor elements and increased visibility.

Poppers on the cuff allow you to fold the sleeve back. This releases any pressure on the skin, especially as the joints create the most friction on contact.

High compressions:
• Anti-chaffing
• Increased blood flow
• Waste product removal for fast recovery
• No negative impact on performance
• Reduces skin irritation

Vest is elongated for fabric weight distribution and articulated support

This is the most complex layer due to it being the base and second skin.

no metal against skin

Vented seams

This layer combines breathable mesh panels, compression and dual layer fabric which contains a layer of olive oil to soothe the skin and create an anti-fungal layer.
